Funny Things Perpetuated in Print by the Juggler of Type.

Chronicle has been compiling a list of morous typographical errors, many of which are so indicrous as to cause should read "beef," not beer," and the thirsty Millwaukeeans drew a long sigh of relief.

"After the ceremony," wrote a rural editor, "the bride was halled and kissed by all and the happy couple given plenty of praise." But what was his horror when he read the notice in the paper the next day: "After the session the bride, was jailed and hissed by all and the erappy couple given twenty days."

A country correspondent, in giving an account of a certain pastor's able address to a Meadville paper, wrote that he was "full of fire and vigor." When the proof came in it gave the somewhat startling information, that the minister was full of pie and viffergar."

The editor wrote it: "While this cold weather lasts, be mindful of others poorer than yourself. Turn not away in silence from the appeal for charity, Give the applicant something, if only some kindly word." The compositor made the clause: "If only some kindling

In an account of a fire in the western part of the state. I read: "The Alert responded promptly, but the fire had gained such headway that, when the steamer arrived, she could do nothing but play upon a man of nerves." I studied the sentence for some time before I could discover the explanation of the blunder; but it finally came to me, but the steamer played upon a mass of the played upon the steamer played upon a mass of

The Daily Tribune, of Jackson, Tenn., recently published the following remarkable paragraph:
"Rev. J. H. Felts, pastor of the West Mission church, preached his farewell sermon this conference, year, Sunday. This is the first year Rev. Mr. Felts has had charge of West Jackson church, and by untiring zeal and social qualities he has made many women friends among his congregation who will be glad to see has made many women friends among his congregation who will be glad to see him return. For "women" I suppose we should read "warm." A correspondent writes that the reporter is still living, but the preacher is in the toils of an investiga-tion, as the result of this simple typo-graphical error.

UTILIZING PEACH BASKETS.

Harper's Bazar: "George," began Mrs. Courtney, eagerly, as her husband returned home to dinner one night, "I have just learned how you can make the love-liest little table for your dressing room out of two old peach baskets. You-"No. May," interrupted her husband,

"Yes, yes, but it does: You nail the two bottoms together, then cover them—the baskets, I mean—with pink calico, or blue, if you like. You just love blue, don't you."

"Oh, but I know it will! And over the calleo you put the lovellest white muslin, and tie it with the dearest little ribbons you ever saw; and the top basket's lined—" No. no! It's out of the question. In

"No, no! It's out of the question. In future, all peach baskete..."
"George, what nonsense are you talk-ing? I tell you the upper one's lined with blue, too; and, there's a board top-covered with calico and muslin, of course—that lifts off, and gives you the sauggest, cutest little place to put your brushes and shaving things in you can imagine. I know you'll just love it when you get it done."
"But my love, the great trouble I see with your scheme is that in the future all peach baskets have to be kept to make you bonnets. I've just heard of a way of fixing them that perfectly splendid."

Mrs. Courriery's pretty brown eyes opened wide with surprise, and her scis-

Mention the lace? Of course, you must have lace and a ribbon or two. "If you want anything further just look it up in Hooper's latest fashion plate, and let's not asy another word about it till dinner's half over."

Dinner was nearly wholly over before Mrs. Courtney had fully made up her mind just what she wanted to say, but when once she had made up her mind she said it with a force and clearness that so surprised Mr. Courtney that to this day he views a woman's bonnet with rather more awe than a Turk with a not too hick neek might the sultan, or a policeman, with a not too secure situation an economic alderman.

Bilver cerilicates 35\\(6466c.\) Har silver 52\\(666c.\) Mexican dollars 46\\(676c.\) The principal factors in to-day's stock market were the stitements of the earnings in October of two of the great railroads of the country, mamely the Pennsylvania and Burlington. Both statements made a remarkably strong showing, but that of Burlington had been discounted by a more active speculation and the rumors which have preceded the publications for some time past have gressly exaggerated the proportions of the increase. As a consequence there was some disappointment in speculative circles over the Burlington statement and some profit-taking, which imparted a heavy tone to the whole of the grangers group until late in the day. In the final hour prices of the group shared in the strength of the general market. Rock Island led with a net advance of 1½ per cent on reports that the company's refunding scheme had been perfected and the sale of the first block of new 4 per cent bonds concluded. The Qciober statement of the Pennsylvania system with its increase in gross earnings of $900.000 and in net of $452.100, was regarded as strongly favorable and as reflecting a large general improvement in business. The stock of the Pennsylvania railroad rose 2% per cent under its influence and all of the trunk lines showed a marked degree of strength, New York Central, Lake Shore and Canada Southern rising from one to two points. Although the Burlington statement compared with a very strong month last year and with one less business day in the month than last sear. the Burlington statement compared with a very strong month last year and with one less business day in the month than last year, and although both the gross and net earnings fell slightly below those of September of this year, the falling off from the record month of September was small. There was a very marked increase in the operating expenses, both for Burlington and the Pennsylvania, amounting to $440.330 in marked increase in the operating expenses, both for Burlington and the Pennsylvania, amounting to $440,330 in the case of the latter, reflecting the arrearages of outlay for maintenance which exist generally in realroad property all over the country. The Erie and Lehigh Valley, also, had very favorable statements for October, but in both cases heavy increases in operating expenses absorbed a large proportion of the increase in gross earnings.

Speculation in Sugar was again very active all day and the stock rose strongly, closing 2½ higher than last night. The approach of the regular dividend period and expectation of a favorable decision by the treasury department on the question of countervalling duties on imported Dutch sugars were the causes of the rise. Northwest and Omaha show net gains equalling a point. Consolidated Gas is 1½ per cent higher on the day. New Jersey Central gained 1½ per cent. Otherwise net gains in the active stocks are confined to fractions and there is a fair sprinkling of small losses through the list. Sales of small losses through the list. 11.000 ounces at from 50\(^4\)c to 50\(^4\)c were a feature of the day. Bar silver sold in this market at 50\(^4\)c, a price which had not been equalled before since July 22. Builion dealers have no other explanation to offer to the strength of silver, but the existence of active demand and a limited supply.

The bond market showed some activity and strength in high grade issues, being very firmly held. Total sales $1.655.000.

BONDS AND STOCK QUOTATIONS.

day on the enormous day's clearances and closed steady at an advance of 400 held down and showed only 14c advance

%c for May. December was apparently held down and showed only ¼c advance at the close. Weak cables and a larger visible increase were bearish factors. Other markets were duil, but firm at the close. Corn was unchanged, oats ¼@¼c higher and provisions about 3½c higher.

Wheat started heavy and was on the down grade for an hour and a half. May, which closed yesterday at 50½@ 90½c. Dened to-day at 50½@90½c. Enough buying was started at the slight decline to advance the price temporarily to 50½c, but it soon got down again to 90½c. December was even weaker, opening ¼c lower at 95½c. Weakness at the Liverpool market, with an opening decline of ¾d swas perhaps the main reason for the decline. The northwestern receipts, while heavy and compared with those on the corresponding day of the year before enormously so, were yet as compared with the movement a week ago, considerably smaller and indicative of the commencement of their permanent radical decrease. Minneapolis and Dulut reported 1,043 cars, against 1,206 last week and 316 the year beings. Chicago receipts were 274 carloass against only 58 and 316 the year beions. Chicago re-ceipts were 274 carloans against only 58 last year.

export clearances from Atlantic The export clearances from Atlantic ports proved to be conspicuously heavy that they drove out of mind the bear-ish features that had been the guiding motives on the decline and caused a speedy reversal of the previous course of subsections.

motives on the decline and galaxies as speedy reversal of the previous course of prices.

The day's exports of wheat were 737-469 bushels and of flour $8,193 barrels, the total being equal to 1,135,000 bushels. That was said to break all previous records from one day's exports from the Atlantic seaboard.

Quite a scramble by shorts took place after the posling of these figures which resulted in sending the price of May up to 31447914/c and December to 384c. The advance was well maintained until Bradstreats reported world's visible had increased 5.000,000 bushels last week, 1,100,000 bushels of which increase was on this side and 3,500,000 bushels of it in and afloat for Europe. That temporarily shock the firmness and the price of May receded to 30%. The shorts had, however been so severely joiled by the rise to 31425314c that they were rendered timid by this time and it took only a show of bushels of the primary market rereceipts were three times heavier than on the corresponding day of the year hefore; the total amounting to 1,103,000 bushels a year ago, but the bulk of the day's receipts were at Minneapolis and Duluth. The contract steek at Chicage increased 530,000 bushels for the week, increased 530,000 bushels for the wee making the total 7.530,000 bushels. The ber, however, was not quite so buoyant, closing at $55, c.

Corn took its one from wheat, starting weak and declining as long as wheat did, and when the latter market changed from weakness to strength, corn did the same. The day's movement of corn favored holders, but this fact was disregarded until wheat valled. The principal part of the day's trading was taking December over to May. Price changes were very narrow. Receipts were $61 cats, much below estimates. Atlantic clearances were $95,000 bushels. May ranged from 294,67 294.6 to 29c and closed unchanged at 294.6 There was very little to the oats market except changing at 14,613,6

There was very little to the oats market except changing at 1½@1½c spread. Longs sold December and there was moderate commission house buying of May, which made that delivery relatively firmer than the nearer one. The action of wheat had some influence. Receipts were posted at 567 cars. Seaboard clearances were 783.000 busnels. May ranged from 22½c to 21½c.
With the exception of a short time after the opening, provisions were firm. Heavy receipts of hogs here and at Western points caused some hestation early. John Cudshy was a good buyer through brokers, presumably covering of short lines and this buying was responsible for the stight advances in January products, which marked the close. December products were easier, resulting in a slight widening of the spread. At the close January pork was 2½c higher at $4 20.
